The compact, hand-held Automatchic spectrophotometer uses the latest digital technology for precise, reliable color measurements. It is easy to use and requires minimal training. To streamline processes, the latest version of Automatchic is wifi enabled.

Features

- High Precision on Curved Surfaces: The device features a compact measurement opening and guide pins, allowing you to easily read colors even on highly contoured bodywork.
- Fast, Conclusive Readings: It requires only two quick, conclusive readings to determine the exact color, dramatically reducing the need for time-consuming test spray-outs.
- Massive Cloud Database: When paired with AkzoNobel's MIXIT color retrieval software, painter gain instant access to a global database of over million colors and variants.
- Wi-Fi and Mobile Connectivity: The device seamlessly synchronizes with smartphones and tablets, allowing technicians to transfer color readings directly from the shop floor.

Irus Scan

Accurately detects and matches colors with metallic and pearlescent flakes Precisely captures hues that shift at different observation angles. Analyzes gloss levels for a complete color match. Provides real-time surface visualization for enhanced accuracy.

Accurate Color Every Time

From simple to the most complex colors, matches are made quickly and easily. That means faster repair times and higher levels of customer satisfaction.

Higher Productivity

Getting an accurate color match the first time, every time means faster workflow through the body shop which increases throughput and profitability.

Optimization of Skilled Labor

Easy to use, it does not require skilled technicians to operate. This keeps them productive in the paint booth, reducing unnecessary bottlenecks in workflow.

Reduced Waste

Accurate color, sparkle, and effect readings reduce the need for sprayouts, decrease rework, and ultimately lower product waste.
